AMANN FOUND GUILTY

Expected Acquittal, But Gets a Sentence of Fourteen Years at Joliet

JURY STOOD ELEVEN TO ONE

Opinion is That Amann Was Sane But Perhaps a Type of Degenerate that are Becoming Numerous

Henry R. Amann has been found guilty of murder in the first degree and his punishment fixed at fourteen years in the penitentiary. The jury which tried the case in the circuit court returned the verdict at eleven o'clock Saturday night after deliberating for five and one half hours. The verdict was signed by Foreman O. G. Hawkins of Gurnee and the balance of the jury.

The verdict came as a complete surprise to Amann, who expected a verdict of acquittal. The state's attorney is satisfied with the verdict and the length of the punishment fixed by the jury is considered as long as could be expected when it is remembered that the plea of insanity was so strongly brought into the case by the attorneys for the defense.

According to reports from the jury room the jurors stood eleven for guilty and one for not guilty on the first ballot. One of the jurors according to report, considered Amann insane from the first and made up his mind that he should not be convicted of murder because of his mental condition. Many who had been close observers during the progress of the trial anticipated a verdict of disagreement because of the position taken by this juror, who, they say, manifested by his questions that he believed by the insanity theory advanced by Amann's counsel.

Amann will be sentenced later in the term. His attorneys made the customary motion for a new trial and this motion will be argued before the sentence is passed.

The convicted murderer is not considered in the least insane by those who have talked with him and those who heard his testimony during the advance of the trial. Some, however, consider him to be a specimen of absolute mental depravity. Satisfied and contented as long as any one fed and clothed him and made him comfortable. He did not care how hard Mrs. M. Knobel worked at washing and cleaning to earn money to support him, although he was able to work and support himself. Another theory is to the effect that he loved the boy, whom he thought was his son, so much that he killed him rather than be separated from him.

FISH BILL VETOED BY GOVERNOR

Governor Deneen Tuesday afternoon vetoed house bill No. 17, to amend the act relative to the catching of several kinds of fish in Lake Michigan. He acted on the advice of the attorney general, who held the proposed act is unconstitutional. The proposed legislation was purely of a local nature, which the state constitution prohibits in fishing legislation.

This bill is the one which Captain Richard Smith of Waukegan originated and which was introduced in the house by Representative A. K. Stearns. It tended to regulate fishing in Lake Michigan and was one of the widest in scope of any fish legislation planned in Illinois for some time. The local fishermen will be surprised and disappointed at the governor's veto, but it was due entirely to the attorney general's opinion, for previously, Governor Deneen had told Captain Smith and others he intended signing the bill in question.

Not Proper Comparison. The old dandy had driven his fare to the hotel and was now demanding a dollar for his service. "What!" protested the passenger, "a dollar for that distance? Why, it isn't half a mile as the crow flies." "Dat's true boss," returned Sambo, with an appealing smile, "but y' see, suh, dat old crow he ain't got free wifes an' ten chilluns to support not to mention de keep foh de hoss."

Men. Men of loftier mind manifest themselves in their equitable dealings; small minded men in their going after gain.—Confucius.

PROSECUTE SALOONISTS

Parents of Antioch Children Indignant at Vulgar Cards Circulated

From the Waukegan Gazette:—Residents of Antioch are up in arms against the saloon keepers of that place and all kinds of threats have been made. It is charged that saloonkeepers who have their places of business in that village have got out business cards with all kinds of lewd verses printed upon the back of them. Saloonkeepers are said to have done the same thing in other parts of the county but the worst condition exists at Antioch, it is claimed.

The worst phase of the matter is said to have arisen out of the fact that cards have been allowed to get into the hands of children. One teacher at the Antioch school took away nine of these cards from her pupils.

The matter has been called to the attention of the parents of school children and they are indignant to think that such cards are being scattered about so promiscuously. They threaten prosecution of the saloonkeepers whose names appear on the front face of the cards.

The condition is one of the most reprehensible that has been unearthed in the county in some time. People point to the fact that it would be bad enough for those vulgar cards to be circulated among grown people but to have them scattered among children, corrupting their morals and bringing questions into their heads that they have no right to ask, is more than the clean minded people of the community care to stand.

[Editor's Note]—After thoroughly investigating the above which appeared in the Tuesday's Waukegan Gazette we give it as our opinion that the story is somewhat of a pipe dream. Principal Hodge of the Antioch school, when interviewed, stated that the affair has never been brought to his attention and the school board claim to be in complete ignorance of the matter.

STRUCK BY BOARD FROM PASSING CAR RECEIVES INJURIES

Mrs. Lee Trexel of Waukegan was probably fatally injured Tuesday morning in the yards of the sugar refinery. Mrs. Trexel was engaged in removing the board from a grain car when the engineer started his engine. The board struck her a crushing blow across the chest breaking several ribs. She was standing between the car and a fence and was thrown against the fence. She was able to walk to her home across the street and the engineer did not think she was seriously injured, so did not report the accident.

After reaching her home she felt severe pains in her chest and a physician was called. He at once realized the seriousness of her injuries and ordered her taken to the hospital where she is reported in a dying condition.

Her husband is an employee of the Standard Oil company and drives one of the wagons.

The theory of the accident is that the grain board must have struck her in some way and crushed her, as there is enough space between the fence and a car for a person to pass.

People's Town Caucus

A caucus of the legal voters of the town of Antioch will be held on Saturday, March 19, A. D. 1910 at the village hall in the village of Antioch between the hours of 1 P. M. and 5 P. M. for the purpose of nominating one candidate for each of the following offices: One Town Clerk, one Assessor, one Collector, one Justice of the Peace (to fill vacancy), one Commissioner of Highways and three Committee men, who shall constitute the Town Committee for the ensuing year.

All voting in said Caucus, shall go by ballot containing the names of all candidates and the manner of conducting the Caucus and all voting therein, shall be as near as may be in accordance with the Australian system of voting. The undersigned Chairman and Secretary shall act as Chairman and Secretary of said Caucus, and shall certify the names of the successful candidates as required by law. No ballot shall be counted unless it shall be endorsed thereon, the initials of one of the judges hereinafter named. Each person desiring to become a candidate in said Caucus shall give his name to one of the undersigned Town Committee on or before Thursday, March 17th, and then pay his share of the expense of said caucus.

Town Committee,
A. N. Tiffany, Chairman.
Henry Grimm, Secretary.

The Water Way or Water Power Bill Recently Defeated in the Legislature

(From the Merengo Republican-News of this week.)

The Sanitary District of Chicago has constructed a deep channel from Chicago to Lockport, twenty-four feet deep—for sewerage purposes—made wide and deep enough for a deep water way. Its estimated cost was Twenty-five Million Dollars. It has cost Sixty Million Dollars, and is not yet completed; the District is issuing additional bonds this year.

The Desplaines river connects Lockport with the Illinois river at Utica, a stretch of sixty-three miles and has a fall of ninety-eight feet, which with fourteen thousand feet of water per second passing from Lake Michigan through the sanitary channel and Desplaines river is capable of developing about 140,000 horse power. At present only about five thousand cubic feet of water per second passes through this channel. The Illinois and Michigan canal lies along side of and near the Desplaines river. All water from the Chicago sanitary channel now passes down the Desplaines river—the Illinois and Michigan canal having been closed up since the Chicago Tribune and other influences at Springfield in 1903 brought about this result and closed up the "Tadpole" Ditch. In 1907 the trustees of the Sanitary District of Chicago came to Springfield and sought legislation to turn over the development of water power in the Desplaines river to them. The Chicago Sanitary District is substantially Chicago. It was conceded then and believed that all water power rights in the Desplaines river were owned by the State of Illinois. The Legislature refused to grant these rights to Chicago and passed a resolution, submitting to the voters of Illinois an amendment to the Constitution of the State, authorizing a bond issue of Twenty Million Dollars to construct a deep water way or canal and for the erection, equipment and maintenance of power plants, locks, dams, etc. During the discussion of this project, in the Legislature and out, it has been conceded that the water way and canal should be a general system of deep water way from Lake Michigan to the Gulf of Mexico, which could only be taken up and carried out by the United States Government.

The Internal Improvement Commission, appointed by Governor Deneen, in their report of 1909, page 52, says: "The water power is, however, strictly a bi-product of the water way," "which is of natural and even international concern. No existing power now or in the future should be permitted to condition in any way or interfere with the best possible water way development, and the Legislature may wisely safeguard the appropriation of waters for water way and sanitary purposes." This was March 1, 1909.

During the discussion of the Constitutional Amendment in the House in November, 1907, it first came to the attention of the Governor and the General Assembly that private interests had secured or were attempting to obtain the water power rights along the Desplaines river by buying up the riparian, or bank rights; and in fact the Economy Light and Power Company commenced the construction of a dam at Dresden Heights. On November 6th, 1907, Governor Deneen sent a message to the General Assembly, asking that authority be granted to the Governor and Attorney General to cause the removal of all dams and obstructions in the Desplaines river, and further asking the General Assembly to declare the Desplaines river a navigable stream, and in this message the Governor said, "If such action is not taken and the legislative measures enacted at your present session in relation to water way do not go into effect until July 1st, next, in what position will the water way interests of the State be found when, in November following, the proposed Constitutional Amendment is submitted to the people, if, instead of the assurance that the total water power development will become public property, it appears that at the outset a very large fraction thereof has been allowed to pass into private hands, and if it further appears that the rights of the State to its resource can be determined only after protracted litigation, which if unsuccessful, would subject the State to the necessity of enormous expenditures in acquiring by condemnation proceedings, the property in which private rights had been permitted to vest, it is not difficult to foresee what would become of the proposal for the issuance of Twenty Million Dollars in bonds which has been suggested by your Honorable Body for submission to the voters."

The Legislature promptly passed an act declaring the Desplaines river a navigable stream and granted the power to the Governor and Attorney General asked for in the message. The Governor at once, through special counsel, in behalf of the State of Illinois, brought suit against the Economy Light & Power Company to oust the dam and to determine the water power rights in the Desplaines river. The State of Illinois was defeated in the Grundy County Circuit Court, and Governor Deneen appealed the case, for the State, to the Supreme Court. In October, 1909, the State Supreme Court decided the case, holding that the Desplaines river was not a navigable stream and never had been, and that a legislative act could not make it such; and deciding against the State at every point, holding that the stream and its bed and the use of the water was subject to private ownership, and I have a report of the Commissioners of the Illinois and Michigan Canal, stating that, under this decision the State of Illinois is the owner of no water power rights in the Desplaines river, except at Dam No. 1, in the City of Joliet, now fully developed, creating 10,000 horse power and leased to the Sanitary District of Chicago for a term of years.

A special session of the Legislature was called to meet at Springfield on December 14th last, an Emergency Session, to act on Water way and water power matters. The Schmitt Bill was introduced in the Senate December 14th. It was an administration measure and passed the Senate early in January by a bare majority of the Governor's friends. It provided for a Commission to issue and spend Twenty Million Dollars in the development of water power in the Desplaines river at once, or as soon as possible. It authorized the Commission to acquire by condemnation all water power rights in and along the Desplaines river and pay the condemnation value out of the bond issue receipts. It ignored water way—deep water way—and provided that all power, when fully developed and not before, should be sold or leased in bulk to the highest bidder—under which terms there could have been but one bidder for the power—it could not have been distributed to the towns down the valley. It was purely a water power bill. Governor Deneen, in a message about January 26th, said, "And this whole question is a question of water power in so far as the expenditure of Twenty Million Dollars by the State is concerned." This, with no Federal aid and not in conjunction with the Federal Government. Is there a voter in Illinois who voted for any such proposition in November, 1908? The State alone, and not in conjunction with the Federal Government, cannot take one cubic foot of water out of Lake Michigan without which there would be no water power.

The Governor, the Internal Improvement Commission and every advocate of the bond issue amendment have said that the Desplaines river was a possible water power development capable of earning Three Million Dollars per annum, and have said and supposed that it was owned by the State of Illinois. Let me ask:—First:—What would be the value of this property to the owner, if it were condemned, having an annual earning capacity of Three Million Dollars per annum? Second:—What is the moral situation as to the bond issue when it is found in October 1909, by a decision of the Supreme Court, that the State owns nothing in these water power rights, but must acquire them all by condemnation? As well might the State spend Twenty Million Dollars in buying up the laundries in the State of Illinois and go into the business. The House defeated the Schmitt Bill, and a Legislature should be elected in 1910 that will again defeat it and be opposed to the issuing of any bonds until the matter is again submitted to the people, or until the Courts determine that the State of Illinois is the owner of the water power rights in the Desplaines river, and the Federal Government, by proper legislation, undertakes the full construction and

J. H. SWAN SELLS OUT

B. H. Overton Will In The Future Conduct The Two Antioch Drug Stores.

Among the many changes which have recently taken place in the business circles of our busy little village we this week chronicle another change which is an important one in many respects.

The deal which has been under consideration for some little time was brought to a close on Wednesday of this week, and by its culmination B. H. Overton takes over the entire stock and business of James H. Swan, thereby becoming the owner and manager of the two drug stores at this place.

The new proprietor takes possession of the Swan store at noon today (Thursday) and will in the future conduct both places.

Mr. Overton has been engaged in the drug business here for the past two years, conducting his store in the building owned by Frank Klein. He is considered one of Antioch's most popular business men and needs no introduction to the public.

Mr. Swan has been engaged in business here for the past seven years, having purchased the business of W. T. Hill, at the time of the latter's departure for Evanston, and during his stay here has made many close friends who sincerely regret that he and his family are about to leave our village.

Mr. Swan states that at the present time his intentions are to locate in Libertyville where he will again engage in the drug business, either by buying an interest in the store already established there or by opening a new one, and is planning to move his family to that place at once.

His many friends here wish him the best of success in his new location.

EXPLOSION AT LAFLIN RAND POWDER MILLS

The pressmill of the Laflin Rand Powder company at Pleasant Prairie, Wis., blew up Monday afternoon and as a result Joseph Steinback, assistant superintendent, and Frank Smith, chief engineer, a son of the superintendent, were badly burned.

Smith may not recover, but Steinback, who has been in seven powder explosions, still seems to lead a charmed life and it is thought that his injuries will not prove fatal.

The explosion occurred in the press mill of the plant. Smith and Steinback had gone in to inspect the mill and a few moments afterward, the explosion, the cause of which is not known took place. The building was completely blown to atoms.

In the village of Pleasant Prairie houses rocked and windows were broken. At Russell, the strength of the explosion was so great that windows were broken and people rushed from the houses fearing an earthquake.

RUSSELL WIDOW PENSIONED

An old lady, a widow, who resides at Russell, Mrs. Bridget Dixon, wife of Charles Dixon, late of Co. 1, 14th Illinois Vol., who has been blind for some time, applied recently for an increase of pension through a petition signed by a number of the residents of the village.

The maximum amount allowed by law is $20.00 per month. Congressman Foss introduced the bill and it was passed by the house Saturday. It has yet to go through the Senate, but it is probable that it will go through all right.

This seems to be a really deserving case and the aged woman will be greatly cheered when she learns of her success.

Antioch Village Caucus

A caucus of the legal voters of the Village of Antioch will be held on Saturday evening, April 2, 1910, at the Village hall in the Village of Antioch between the hours of 7:30 and 9:00 p. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates to be voted for at the village election held on Tuesday, April 19, 1910, as follows:

Three Trustees
One Village Clerk
One Police Magistrate
One Village Treasurer

And the appointing of a committee of three who shall constitute the Village Committee for the ensuing year, and such other business as may properly come before said caucus while convened Dated Antioch, March 15, 1910.

OGDEN IS SET FREE

Case Against Waukegan Physician Charged with Murder Dismissed by Dady

CASE A SENSATIONAL ONE

Reason for Dismissing the Case was the Absence of Joe Connor and His Present Predicament

The case of the state of Illinois vs. Dr. Jessie Buckley Ogden of Waukegan charged with the murder of Mrs. Jos. Connor, was dismissed by State's Attorney Dady, Monday afternoon, before Judge Frost.

The State's Attorney gave as his reason for this move, that Joe Connor, husband of the woman, is now in an insane asylum and that he was the main witness, hence he would be unable to secure a conviction and did not care to open up the case.

Dr. Ogden was in court and evidently expected this turn of affairs. She left at once naturally much satisfied over the termination of the case against her which has been one of the most sensational in many ways that the county has ever had.

Here is what State's Attorney Dady said:

Your honor, I wish to dismiss this case. The reason is that my principal witness, Joe Connor, is now in an insane asylum and in case he should ever recover his mind, I am afraid his present situation would prevent him getting a conviction.

He is now in an asylum, but if he recovers he is sure to be arrested on the charge of embezzlement from the E. J. and E. offices in Waukegan. Even though he were not, his evidence would be insufficient now to help me get a conviction, hence I wish to drop the case."

"I will enter an order nolle prosequing the case," said the judge. He did so and thus ends the famous Ogden case.

Mrs. Connor died over a year ago and the state had Dr. Ogden arrested charging her with having been the cause of her death. The first grand jury to which she was held failed to indict but the jury last fall indicted her, the case was continued and was to have been tried this month. The sudden failure of mind of Joe Connor, the charges of embezzlement, etc, made it quite evident for some time that the case against Dr. Ogden would be dropped for without evidence the state had little to work upon.

SERIOUSLY INJURED BY STREET CAR

Bridget Hoolihan, 45 years old, a housemaid in the Congress hotel, Chicago, had her skull fractured in a street car accident at the naval training school station, Saturday night, shortly before ten o'clock. It is said that she will die. Miss Hoolihan was on her way to Waukegan to spend Sunday with her sister, Mary Hoolihan, a maid employed by the Blodgett family on South Sheridan road. It is believed that she got off the car by mistake at North Chicago and then waited for the next car to come along. After the accident she was placed aboard the car and taken to the Larson & Conrad undertaking establishment where an ambulance was waiting, in response to a request which had been telephoned from North Chicago. Then began a race with death, the ambulance being driven at break-neck speed to the hospital where the services of Dr. Knight were summoned. An examination revealed the fact that her skull had been fractured. She has not regained consciousness and it is believed that she will die.

SYNOPSIS.

Basil Tempest, world's greatest novelist and poet, refusing to be further lionized, shuts himself up in Craven, his country home. His gloomy meditations are broken by his housekeeper, who has disobeyed his orders not to admit any one. The visitor is Lucy Carew, an American who has come to England to write a study of the author, but more especially to get a synopsis of his new suite of poems, having been promised a good position with a magazine if successful. Tempest, in anger, declares he will write no more, and asks her to go. Repenting of his rudeness in sending her out in the rain at night, he follows, but she refuses to return to Craven with him, and takes lodging with a cottager. Next morning Lucy receives a note from Tempest apologizing for his rudeness and offering to assist her in writing her essay. Tempest dictates to Lucy, who listens spellbound as she writes. He calls at the cottage and discovers that Lucy has left to take a train for London. He overtakes her and induces her to stay over and read the manuscript to him.

"Thank you very much indeed. I shall look for you this afternoon. Shall I send for you, or will you walk?"
"I'll walk," said Miss Carew, and he accepted her decision, saying:
"Then I'll mount and leave you here. You will simply tell Mrs. Ramsdill that you have planned to stay on for a day or two because of your message."

He shook her hand and, getting on his horse, took leave of her in the lane.

But at four o'clock his carriage came for her—he was not, evidently, in a mood to wait for her arrival.
Mrs. Ramsdill came in to Lucy Carew with the announcement and a note.

"Will you not dine here?" it ran. "If you are a rigid conventionalist Mrs. Henly shall sit and knit in her corner."

To Ramsdill's presence, to her slightly pursed-up lips, her "air," was due the response that went to Mr. Tempest, for looking suddenly up Miss Carew caught a sight of her sister woman's face and it gave her pause. Was she a coward, and did not dare to take her life without fear of a peasant woman's comment? Or did the look on the humble, good face reflect only what was in Lucy's own heart—a fear, a dread, distrust, and a certain shame?

She wrote a note and sent it in her stead. But she could not like a creature with no mind or will, entirely refuse the favor she had promised.

"I am sorry, but I cannot come today. I will go to Craven to-morrow between two and three."

CHAPTER III.

Tempest so intensely desired what he took the trouble to want at all that he had no rule for the bearing of disappointments, he had until lately admitted none. To accomplish what he desired to desire he put out whatever effort was required on his part, and with magnetism and intensity drew things towards him. The facility with which things slipped to his hands spoiled him. Petulant of habit, impatient and turbulent of temper, he never waited—when his wish for variety was delayed he went for it and snatched it to himself.

But lately this life had undergone a change. Precedent no longer would, he knew, be indicative of his future. His future! Curse the word and epoch! Why had he consented to accept one?

During the last three days his mind had been resting in the contemplation of gentle things. It had amused and entertained him to take pleasure in the society of this woman of another continent, whose presence alone was so extraordinary, whose advent was so dull and unusual.

He was with women as with other things—tyrannical, an absolutist, boldly asking and taking pleasure where he chose—with more of the brute, perhaps, than the angel in his composition, and a great fund of affection to give and waste, a great, hungry need of companionship to be filled. Except for the periods when he shut himself up in Craven, periods of isolation and fast, there had never been a time in his life not dominated by a woman. He had, for such as himself, scoffed at marriage, claiming that its dross of servitude would fatally exorcise his inspirations and that he would make "a devilish bad husband." During this last exile at Craven he had alternately given thanks for his liberty and the fact that no woman was forced to share his miasmic humors, and alternately hated his unaccompanied heart.

But he was utterly unprepared for the note which came instead of Lucy Carew. He read it, the look of content his thought of her coming called forth scarcely cold on his face; he read and turned it over in hopes that she would on the last page change her cruel mind! Then he flung it down with an angry exclamation and looked about his lonely rooms. They had lately been to him worse than lonely, and an involuntary shiver passed over him as he glanced at corners where ghostlike habitants were growing tenuous in possession. At the side of the window-casing hung a mirror in an old brass frame between the vivid lights of the full afternoon. Tempest strode up to it, throwing his heavy hair from his forehead; gazed into the glass, peered in, searching the cold, reflecting surface as if he would tear from it some flaming, miraculous revelation of himself.

Turning away with a sigh, he rang for his man servant.
"Pack me a valise and order the motor car—we take the London express. Wire for rooms at the Carlton."

Either his desire for Miss Carew's society was not sufficiently strong to warrant his usual brusque storming of her door, or he may have felt a danger not before acknowledged in his relations with women. He did not so much as look towards the rose-covered cottage at the back of its cabbage and hollyhock patch as his motor flashed by it, and Lucy Carew, as chance would have it, was not there to observe his sudden departure. She had gone for a long tramp over fields, and even then was looking at Craven and its towers from a distant hill.

Lady Ormond was one of those women who are part of pleasure as flowers are of feasts. She and her type are needed to make part of the happiness—the festivals, rather, that are held in order to awaken what goes in love's stead throughout the lives of many men and to stimulate what is the more heavy-footed brother of ecstasy—excitement. She was a thorough woman of the world; intelligent, without ever having followed an idea to its source or conclusion; sympathetic, without ever having in her life been touched; caressing, without ever having known what love was in the course of her thirty odd years. The nearest approach to reality had been her sentiment for the man to whom for several years she had given her time and her society, with whom fashion had linked her name. No nature could come into relation with Basil Tempest without broadening; were it as narrow as a hair, it must expand or break, and Letitia Ormond's had expanded to its utmost limit—so far that it created a gene with her at times that actually hurt.

Tempest had gradually drunk of the deepest waters she had to offer, and she knew it. The fact that she had no more refreshing draught to give him at his imperious demand, that he had reached the bed of the stream, would have desolated a woman who really loved. But Lady Ormond wanted to escape—not Tempest, exactly, but the fact of her deficiency. She knew she could never be again to another what she had been to him, and that if he could come to her as he had originally, with the like enthusiasm, the like forceful demand, she would be anew carried away by his charm. Such a Tempest could not come again. In their gradual drifting apart she had not suffered; she had prepared her interests, new claims were ready to assert themselves, and she grew to accept his frequent absences without reproach.

Lady Ormond was "up for Sunday" to entertain some Americans passing through London, and, standing under the careful adjustment of lights, surrounded by half a dozen of the most sought men in London, she looked with surprise to see Tempest making his way through the crowded room to her. His eyes were on her and he half stumbled against a chair in his way. Awkwardness was foreign to him—he was intolerant of it in others—and he was now so cruelly self-conscious that Lady Ormond flushed for him, reflecting the dark-red of his face

Champagne.

It is said that when Sir Andrew Clark, Mr. Gladstone's physician, recommended a patient to drink wine, the latter expressed some surprise, saying he thought Sir Andrew was a temperance doctor, to which Sir Andrew Clark replied: "Oh, wine does sometimes help you to get through work; for instance, I have often 20 letters to answer after dinner, and a pint of champagne is a great help." "Indeed," when he came up and put out his hand.

"Every one has been asking for you. Why did you not come to Gossamer? When did you arrive?"

He had been given place by her with common consent. The men after greeting him gradually slipped away, all save the American guest, who gazed at Basil Tempest wide-eyed, as one might at a star.

"I have arrived in town within this hour," Tempest said.

"Mr. Tempest!" Lady Ormond turned to the American—"knows how to maintain his popularity—he goes away before his public have half enough of him, and returns before they are tired of wondering where he is. For my part I hate brusque departures. I want to be prepared—I don't like sudden good-byes."

She held out her hand to the American and said rather imperiously: "Will you ask Lady Winifred Sales to dance, Mr. Bainbridge? She is alone over there by the palms," thus cutting short Mr. Bainbridge's hero-worship.

"And"—Tempest took her up several phrases back—"sudden returns—you dislike them?"

She was femininely conscious that he had taken note of every detail of her sparkling beauty, and meeting his eyes agreeably said with grace:

"Your returns are never sudden. I am always bringing you back in my mind. You see, Basil, you are always expected."

His face brightened excessively. "That's the prettiest speech I ever heard a woman make. Come, come with me out of this crush, can't you? I have something especial to say, and you know that I do not understand the art of waiting."

She nodded and smiled, delighted to perceive herself glad to see him and that his sudden return without warning did not find her cold.

He followed her across the ball-room to the opposite side, where a room decorated with lilies and orchids gave them a corner planned and set apart for just such causeries intimates as Tempest determined it should be.

Lady Ormond sat down in a corner of a little divan, Tempest beside her. "Letty,"—he lifted her hand to his lips—"Letty, I exaggerate in my books—they would not be worth writing or reading if I did not. I never really transcribe real life, although they call me a realist. You never heard of a great photographer, did you? Do you think there will be one remembered by men in a hundred years from now? Not unless he has made his pictures as unlike life as possible. Well, I don't exaggerate in my life or speech. I am plain—you have even called me brutal. Now I am speaking realistically—I've been living in hell since I left London."

The marks of suffering were distinct on his face, he looked ill and changed; there was something appealing and touching in his expression, usually arrogance and pride itself. The flippant speech his statement would have called forth from Lady Ormond's humor did not pass her lips. She gave his hand a gentle pressure.

"Basil, you look horribly ill—what is the matter? You are changed."

"Am I?" He threw up his head rather defiantly and impatiently, as if to shake off commiseration. "I've studied my face enough, God knows, these days, but I find it the same."

"Where have you been—at Craven?"

"Yes. Shut up like a bear in his cage."

"And you come out to bite, I suppose?"

"Hush!" he said frowning. "Don't for God's sake be flippant. I am not in any mood for it. I've had them all—the moods—heaven knows, but this is a peculiarly grim one to-night. If you are in any way, second it, I will be grateful."

She looked at him curiously but not unaffectionately. "I'll be as grim as you like, Basil. What do you want me to feel?"

Tempest had covered his eyes with his hands, a gesture growing now second nature to him. He laughed softly as she spoke. "How perfect of you, Letty! What do I want you to feel? Why, do you then command your sentiments at call? Can I have them up at touch, have you so many more for me than one?"

He uncovered his eyes and looked at her smiling. His expression was cynical and amused. "I don't want or not want you to feel in any particular way. I want to know how you do feel and to act accordingly."

She started—with him, at all events, a crisis was reached in their relations. She said, to gain time and to collect herself: "You are quite your most singular self to-night—Je ne suis pas une femme tragique, and I think you might return after a four weeks' absence in a little more soothing mood! You are mysterious, and I am bewildered at mysteries. What has gone wrong? Are you dissatisfied with some new creation, or have you lost money?"

Apocryph of George Washington and the cherry tree story, Senator Beveridge said at a dinner in Indianapolis:

"I asked a little boy what this story was the other day, and he actually didn't know. He said he knew, though, the story about the judgment of Solomon, and he proceeded to tell it to me. 'Solomon,' he said, 'was a very wise man. One day two women went to him, quarreling about a baby. The first woman said, 'It is my child.' The second said, 'No, it is mine.' 'But Solomon spoke up and declared:

"No, no, ladies; do not quarrel. Give me my sword and I will make twins of him, so that each of you will be supplied."

Grand Easter Opening

Occurring Saturday, March 19th, and the Entire Following Week

We want everyone who reads this announcement to accept it as a personal invitation to attend our Easter Opening which commences Saturday, March 19th. Though Easter comes early this season, still earlier has dame fashion been in providing us with the new things for spring wear. For more than a month we have been exhibiting the correct wearables for 1910, reserving, however, our best until this grand opening exhibit, when a representative showing of all that is authoritative and correct for spring is revealed. We want you all to attend this occasion and feel at home and at liberty to leisurely stroll from section to section and inspect the new things.

We know you will all appreciate the magnificent collection of ready-to-wear garments which we have to show you. Especially are we proud of our lines of women's apparel as the collection embraces the styles of America's best garment makers—clothes distinctive in style with perfect fitting lines and possessing the most dependable wearing qualities.

Much might be said concerning the fitness of every department for there is not a section in the store but what is replete with the most trustworthy and stylish lines of merchandise. The strongest evidence of progress of this store is the fact that we are continually adding new departments and enlarging the old ones. The furniture department has been the last addition and is destined to be a wonderful success.

Bargain in Men's Shoes—This is a big lot of thoroughly dependable shoes, slightly soiled from handling, but none the worse for wear, the styles are all up to date, leathers comprise patent, colt, vicid and gunmetal, they are the kind you would expect to pay $3.50 to $4 for

2.48Exquisite Easter Styles
in Millinery

The beautiful new creations in women's headgear which fashion has ordained for spring are now upon exhibition in our handsomely appointed millinery parlor. Of course you are going to attend this Easter opening and view these charming creations for we have made extensive preparations for your comfort and enjoyment.

Our showing is one in which the authoritative styles of Paris and New York have faithfully reproduced by a corps of high class milliners of our own workshop. Ladies desiring hats made up to particular ideas of their own will find these artists amiably inclined to carry instructions; at the same time willing to forward their able suggestions if you desire.

The large sailor with the rolling brim is fashion's favorite shape for spring, the dimensions being larger than ever, though artistically proportioned. The large turbans and taxi bonnets also claim much favoritism.

Easter Exhibit of Men's Correct Clothes for Spring

There isn't a doubt but what we are going to outfit the majority of Lake county's best dressed men this spring. You may wonder why we are so firm in this contention but you will not question when once you make a thorough inspection of the nobby suits we are showing. We especially invite every man to come in during this opening and make himself feel at home; stroll through the store and take a careful look at the new things. If you would like to inspect our lines of suits we'll be only too glad to show you our complete assortment.

Don't feel that because we take a lot of pains in showing you that you have got to buy. There is one-half of our entire main floor devoted to the display of suits and fixings for men; a bigger selection of fine clothes than was ever seen in Waukegan before.

In this immense collection are hundreds of Kaufman's pre-shrunk garments; we're proud to mention the fact, too, for the name stands for the best there is in men's clothes; they are designed and built by artists; they are pure wool and possess character and style. Other famous makers' products are also included in this magnificent array of men's and young men's suits.

You'll never see handsomer styles, patterns and colors than we have got to show you. Our price scale ranges from

$10 TO $30Sale of Boys' Easter Suits

"Hups" Plow in Mud.

San Francisco automobile dealers and motor enthusiasts planned and carried out a contest Feb. 14, which tested to the limit of endurance and power the cars which participated. The run carried the contestants over 200 miles of roads deep in mud and through conditions not to be found in any other season. Among the contestants was a Hupmobile, which came through with not only a perfect score, but with the fastest time record as well. The fact of the Hupmobile's having won a perfect score tells the story of a 200 mile run without mechanical trouble. The car's time for the 200 mile was 7:15:00, which meant an average speed of better than 27 miles per hour.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Tiffany & Felter are agent for the Hupmobile in Lake county. See his adv. on page 4.

Why Trees Grow Large.

Washington and Oregon have some of the largest trees in the world and the climatic conditions of that section are responsible for this fact. In the Puget sound country the rainfall is about 53 inches, while up in the higher Cascades, near Seattle, it is 100 inches, and sometimes reaches the 150-inch point. Under such climatic conditions the seeds of the trees germinate readily and all the trees continue to make a vigorous growth.

Spot for Lady Godiva.

"Talk about vanity!" exclaimed the woman who keeps her eyes open. "I passed a big new building the other day—big enough to be a school or a theater—and what do you suppose it was to be devoted to? Hair—hair! Puffs and braids and swirls and switches and curls and rats and things for women to pin on their heads and make believe belong to them. A building full of hair!"

The Two Classes.

All the people are divided into two parts—those who wait for the mid-season bargain sales and those who can afford not to.—Life.

Electric Bitters

Succeed when everything else fails. In nervous prostration and female weaknesses they are the supreme remedy, as thousands have testified. FOR KIDNEY, LIVER AND STOMACH TROUBLE it is the best medicine ever sold over a druggist's counter.

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable
by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

ROOSEVELT AT KHARTUM

EX-PRESIDENT IS AGAIN IN TOUCH WITH CIVILIZATION, HOMEWARD BOUND

Greeted in Historic Egyptian City by His Wife, Daughter and Hundreds of Correspondents and Friends---Chronological Review of a Remarkable Expedition

Khartum, Egyptian Sudan.—Ex-President Roosevelt is again back in touch with civilization and is at this place as the guest of the Egyptian and English governments, being entertained at the governor general's palace by Gen. Sir Reginald Wingate. He was met here by Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel and by a host of American and European correspondents and numerous delegations of political and other friends from the United States. In fact this historic town is literally filled with visitors brought here to greet the returning traveler.

With his arrival at this place, Col. Roosevelt completed one of the most remarkable journeys through the wilderness of Africa that has been undertaken since the days of Livingstone and Stanley. It was a remarkable journey both in number of animals slain and preserved as specimens, and because of its lack of accidents and of the Blue Nile. The river passes directly through the city, and along its banks, fronted by the barracks of the British soldiers, lies a magnificent driveway three miles in length.

British Policy Is Seen.

Northwest of Khartum is Omdurman, the city occupied by the Mahdi after the death of Gordon and the scene of the licentious revelries that occupied the native soldiery up to the time that they were confronted and overwhelmed by Kitchener. The British, true to their policy of colonization, have not attempted seriously to interfere with Moslem customs here. The ruins of the Khalifa's body guard headquarters, the military prison, the remnants at the Arab fortifications have all been allowed to stand.

Still further north is the field of Kereri, the shambles in which Kitchener with mathematical exactitude slashed to pieces the Arab forces. The

HOW THE OLD-FASHIONED WINTER LOOKED TO THE FARMER

PATTEN ATTACKED BY MOB

BROKER DRIVEN FROM MANCHESTER COTTON EXCHANGE.

Englishmen, Angry Over American's Corner, Chase Him to Street, Where Police Rescue Him.

Manchester, England.—James A. Patten, the Chicago cotton and grain speculator, was hooted from the Manchester exchange Thursday. Subsequently he was followed through the streets by a large crowd. Mr. Patten was obliged to find refuge from his wrathful pursuers in a business office.

Hoots and cat calls followed the exit of the American speculator, who had been in the cotton pit during the forenoon. Bricks and stones were hurled at him as he fled into the street and the danger of still further violence was averted only when he sought refuge in a nearby shop.

Manchester is the principal cotton market of England and most of the big cotton cloth mills are located here. Public feeling against Patten has been very high since the recent corner in which he was credited with having increased the price of the raw material to a figure beyond what it had been since the civil war. This feeling, shared by workmen of the mills and brokers in the pit, was responsible for the demonstration.

The presence of Mr. Patten in the cotton pit of the exchange caused surprise, as just before leaving New York for England he had been quoted by the press as denying that he would visit any of the exchanges while abroad and as saying that his trip had no relations to business.

It is well known that he and the operators with whom he is associated hold a heavy line of cotton and it is thought that he came to Manchester to seek a ready market for it, in order to wipe out practically all of the available supply in New York and cause a consequent increase in the price there.

Mr. Patten was indignant over the attack on him and said that he could conceive of no reason for the humiliation to which he had been subjected.

WORK TO FREE JOHN R. WALSH

Friends of Ex-Banker Now Serving Prison Term Will Soon Present Petition to Taft.

Washington.—The petitions asking for the pardon of John R. Walsh, the former Chicago banker now serving a term in the Leavenworth (Kan.) penitentiary, will be presented to President Taft in a few days. While the White House will make no announcement at this time as to what the president's attitude will likely be it is well understood that he will refuse a pardon unless the department of justice should recommend it. The petitions will be referred to the department of justice, and as in all such cases, the attorney general will be instructed to make an inquiry into the merits of the case and report to the president.

CORPORATION TAX A MENACE

Counsel for Assailants of Provision Predict Strong Fight Over Its Constitutionality.

Washington.—From the several briefs filed Wednesday in the supreme court of the United States, in opposition to the corporation tax, lawyers who have examined them have drawn the conclusion that one of the principal fights on the constitutionality of that measure is to be waged over the question of whether it is an improper tax on the power of the states to grant franchises.

The cases involving the constitutionality of the tax come up for oral argument before court next week.

Frederick R. Coudert, counsel in two of the cases in which the tax is opposed, features this attack on the law. He argues at length against the so-called infringement by the federal government on the rights of states.

"The power to grant charters," says he in his brief, "is one of the oldest state powers. It antedates the revolution. Taxation with its logically concomitant potential destruction of this power by the general government would thus be an attack upon, and possibly annihilation of one of the greatest and oldest of state functions."

In the brief of John G. Johnson and Frederick J. Stimson, in opposition to the tax in another case, they conclude their argument by this quotation from former Chief Justice Marshall:

"No political dreamer ever was wild enough to think of breaking down the lines which separate the state, and of compounding the American people into one common mass."

FANATIC SHOTS AMERICANS

Two Women Tourists Are Injured Just Outside of Jerusalem by Afghan's Pistol.

Washington.—Secretary Knox cabled urgent orders to the American consul at Jerusalem, as well as to Ambassador Strauss at Constantinople, to have an immediate investigation made into the shooting of two American women in the Mosque Omar, just outside of Jerusalem.

The injured women are Miss Parker Moore of Terre Haute, Ind., and Miss Natalie Maurice of Mamroek, N. Y. It is understood that while Miss Moore was seriously wounded she will recover. Miss Maurice received only a slight flesh wound.

The shooting, according to a dispatch received from Consul Thomas R. Wallace, was done by an Afghan fanatic who fired without warning into a party of tourists.

'Frico Has Sharp Shake.

San Francisco.—A sharp earthquake which in some parts of the state was the severest shock experienced since the catastrophe of 1906, was felt through the central part of California late Thursday night. The vibrations were long and undulatory, but slow, and the duration was one and a half to four seconds. Reports show that the shock was felt as far south as San Luis Obispo, but it did not appear to extend far north of San Francisco. The pronounced heavy movements, with a slight interval of undulations between, were felt, but no serious damage has been reported.

WESTERN CANADA

What Prof. Shaw, the Well-Known Agriculturist, Says About It:

"I would advise cattle in Western Canada that in the corn belt of the United States. Feed a cheaper and climate better for the purpose. Your market will improve faster than your supplies. Wheat can be grown up to the 60th parallel (60 miles north of the international boundary). Your recent land will be taken at a rate beyond present conception. The land is in the United States alone who want homes to take up this land." Nearly 70,000 Americans will enter and make their homes in Western Canada this year.

1000 produced another large crop of wheat, oats and barley. In addition to wheat and barley, exports was an immense item. Cattle and sheep, raised by railroads and grain grown in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, will be provided for the winter. sickness of every kind. Ordinarily a traveler, through the regions through which Col. Roosevelt has passed, comes out of the jungles loaded with malaria and fever germs. Up to the present time, neither Col. Roosevelt nor any of his party have shown any symptoms of having contracted any of the numerous contagious diseases.

Gen. Sir Reginald Wingate provided countless ways for the entertainment of his distinguished guest. Representatives of the many tribes of the desert have been gathered here into one great encampment, and for Col. Roosevelt's entertainment, have indulged in every possible form of native amusement, giving dances, races, etc.

The town of Khartum is a mass of color. Flags of Egypt, England and America are everywhere, and the ex-president has probably appreciated nothing more than the opportunity of visiting this historical spot.

Khartum is virtually built around the grave of "Chinese" Gordon. The city itself is a gigantic monument to that soldier's deeds and his heroic death. In the center of it stands his effigy in bronze, mounted on a camel, gazing with fixed eyes out toward the terrible year that he lay there waiting for relief. Behind the statue stands the British governor's palace, an imposing structure in the Gothic style, typical of British power and British permanence.

Name Gordon Everywhere.

Not far away is the Gordon Memorial college, a school built with funds raised by Gen. Kitchener by subscription throughout Great Britain, in which the Sudanese newer generation is trained for service in the government which conquered its fathers. Everywhere throughout the city the name Gordon appears. There is the Gordon hotel, the Gordon drive and up the White Nile the Gordon tree. Gordon's memory will live so long as Khartum exists. The British have transformed the city of his death into a memorial to his glory that can live at the.

Khartum stands at the confluence of the White and Blue Niles, and some development of the city will become a magnificent meadow to the south. Secured six rhinos, a hippopotamus, two eland, two wildebeest, several antelope, two zebra, a hyena, a warthog and three lions.

battle was one of the bloodiest in modern history. It was marked on the Mohammedan side by a courage and ferocity almost superhuman, and on the side of the British by a skill and coolness that was in itself a tribute to Anglo-Saxon civilization.

Itinerary of the Trip.

A schedule of Mr. Roosevelt's mileage in Africa to date, together with some reference to the character of the country through which he hiked, rode or boated, and a partial list of the animals killed by his party, is as follows:

March 23.—Sailed from New York for Naples, 4,176 miles.

March 30.—Arrived at the Azores.

April 2.—Arrived at Gibraltar.

April 5.—Arrived at Naples.

April 6.—After being received by King Victor Emmanuel, sailed for Mombasa, British East Africa, 4,121 miles.

April 15.—Arrived at Aden, Arabia.

April 21.—Arrived at Mombasa and received with honors by the provincial governor.

April 22.—Left Mombasa by rail for Kapiti plains and the ranch of Sir Alfred Pease on the Athi river for short shooting expeditions. About 270 miles. Secured two wildebeest, two gazelle, five other antelope, six lions, three giraffe, one zebra, one rhino, a warthog and a hartebeest.

May 15.—Rode to W. H. McMillan's "Juja farm," a full day's journey, for short expeditions. Secured two impala, several antelope, a water buck, a leopard, a rhino and a hippopotamus.

More Big Game Killed.

May 20.—Rode from McMillan's to the adjoining Heatley ranch for buffalo hunting among the papyrus swamps. Twelve miles. Secured four buffalo, four hartebeest, two zebra, two gazelle and a warthog.

May 26.—Rode from the Heatley ranch to McMillan's town house at Nairobi. A day's jaunt.

June 4.—Arrived at Kijabe.

June 5.—Left Kijabe on march for the Sotik district. The route was over a waterless tract, and although the distance traversed was only 60 miles, it entailed a three-day trip. Secured six rhinos, a hippopotamus, two eland, two wildebeest, several antelope, two zebra, a hyena, a warthog and three lions.

July 12.—Arrived at Lake Nafvasha porters returned to Uganda.

Feb. 28.—Roosevelt left Gondokoro via steamboat for Khartum, more than 800 miles to the north.

March 11.—Arrived at Renk, about two days' journey by boat, south of Khartum.

March 14.—Reached Khartum, the end of his journey on the Nile, and was greeted by Mrs. Roosevelt and daughter, Miss Ethel.

Homeward Bound.

The arranged program for the remainder of Col. Roosevelt's homeward journey is as follows:

Will arrive at Alexandria, Egypt, on March 29.

Will arrive at Gibraltar on April 2, and at Naples on April 10.

On April 14 he will reach Paris, where a great national reception has been planned, which will continue through his three days' stay in the French capital.

On April 17 he will go to Vienna, where he will be the guest of the International Sporting exhibition, and at which place he will meet sportsmen from all over the world.

On May 10 he is scheduled to be in Berlin as the guest of the emperor and the faculty of the University of Berlin.

May 12 he is to arrive at Christiansburg as the guest of King Gustav of Sweden and of the nation.

On May 15 he will arrive in London as the guest of the English people and King Edward, and has already been voted the freedom of the city.

June 15 he arrives at New York, where he will be greeted by delegations from all over the nation and received by President Taft.

GALLINGER'S BILL TO CHARTER ROCKEFELLER'S PLAN WILL BE OPPOSED.

WICKERSHAM SEVERE CRITIC

Capitalist's Quick Approval of Praise is Cited as Showing His Desire to Make the Standard Oil Company Popular.

Washington.—The Gallinger bill chartering the Rockefeller foundation will encounter much opposition notwithstanding it has been favorably reported by the senate committee on district affairs.

For ten days it has been whispered about in administration circles that Mr. Rockefeller had the bill introduced with the announcement that his vast fortune is to be devoted to philanthropic work for the express purpose of creating popular sentiment favorable to himself and the Standard Oil Company, and he has been denounced for taking this action on the eve of the consideration by the supreme court of the suit to dissolve that corporation.

Attorney General Wickersham is one of Mr. Rockefeller's most severe critics. He has made no public statement, but he is said to have characterized Mr. Rockefeller's action as "brazen effrontery" and "outrageous audacity."

The matter has been called to President Taft's attention and the prediction has been made that he would not sign the bill if passed. So far as can be learned, however, he has expressed no opinion on which such a prediction might be based.

This opposition to the Gallinger bill, originating in the department of justice, which has been fighting the Standard for four years, has been kept under cover until the publication of a letter to the editor of the Waukegan (Ill.) Gazette expressing Mr. Rockefeller's pleasure at that paper's favorable mention of the project.

This letter is pointed to as absolute confirmation of the charge that Mr. Rockefeller is making a bid for popular applause and is encouraging and stimulating expressions of approval in the press and pulp in all parts of the country.

CALL OUT ALL UNION MEN

Philadelphia Central Body Issues Order Directed Against Brewers, Bakers and Printers.

Philadelphia.—The Central Labor union of Philadelphia, in a secret meeting Sunday, issued a final call to all union labor men within the city. They are ordered to join the general strike not later than midnight Monday under penalty of ostracism from union labor.

This move came as a bombshell into the camp. It had been believed that the Central Labor union, satisfied with its position, would stand pat and wait for the agreement between the Rapid Transit Company and its employees.

The call, if generally obeyed, means that Philadelphia will begin to feel the real pinch of a general strike.

This move is particularly directed against the brewery workers, the bakers and the printers, three powerful union bodies which up to date have played the part of spectators in the affair. These men stand upon the ground, that they, as members of international bodies, have no right to go out on a strike without the sanction of their governing bodies, which up to date, they have not received.

At the same meeting all union men possessing bank accounts were instructed to withdraw their money from the local banking institutions. The labor leaders hope by this move to still further inconvenience the power which is at battle with them.

AFT'S KIN IS A SUICIDE

Silent Attends Funeral of Brother-in-Law Who Kills Himself with Bullet.

Gettysburg, Pa.—With President Taft among the mourners at the graveside, the body of Thomas K. Laughlin, Mrs. Aft's brother-in-law, was interred in Allegheny cemetery Sunday.

The funeral services of the millionaire who found life so burdensome that he brought it to a speedy end with a pistol shot in the basement of his handsome home some time on Tuesday night, were private and without ostentation.

Mr. Laughlin's death was at first reported to have been due to apoplexy, but the fact that he shot himself through the head leaked out notwithstanding efforts by the family to keep the matter secret.

His friends believe that his long continued illness was the cause for the tragedy.

Mr. Laughlin's widow is a sister of Mr. Taft.

BALLINGER IS CONTRADICTED

CHIEF ENGINEER OF RECLAMATION SERVICE TESTIFIES.

Secretary Wanted Power Sites Restored Slowly So as Not to Attract Public Attention.

Washington.—A. P. Davis, chief engineer of the reclamation service, gave testimony before the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation Friday strongly against Secretary Ballinger. He said Mr. Ballinger had directed him to go slowly about restoring certain power sites on public lands to the public domain so as not to attract public attention.

Mr. Davis declared that in preparing lists of lands to be restored by Secretary Ballinger he felt that he was acting under mandatory orders from the secretary.

These lands had been withdrawn, witness said, by Secretary Garfield for the conservation of water power sites.

Mr. Ballinger, according to Davis, repeatedly gave verbal orders that lands so withdrawn should be prepared for restoration, as their withdrawal had been in direct violation of law and could not be sustained. No written orders, however, were ever issued.

Mr. Davis told in detail an interview he had with Mr. Ballinger at his hotel in March last, in which he criticized the conduct of the reclamation service and declared illegal the withdrawal of large areas of power sites.

Mr. Pepper brought out the fact that Mr. Davis in making his recommendations for restoration of the land withdrawn was acting upon the mandatory order of Secretary Ballinger. This mandatory order was given orally by Mr. Ballinger. Of his own volition Mr. Davis said he would have made no such recommendation.

This evidence was of especial importance because of the fact that Ballinger in his defense to the president stated that he acted in making these restorations upon the recommendation of the reclamation service.

Washington.—James R. Garfield, former secretary of the interior, testified Thursday before the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation committee that he did not believe the $30,000,000 bond issue, recommended by President Taft to congress, was necessary for the proper forwarding of irrigation work in the west.

He said this in defense of the co-operative agreements he entered into with water users' associations and of the "reclamation certificates" he issued in evidence of work performed and which came to be known as "Garfield currency."

Mr. Garfield said Attorney General Wickersham and President Taft did not have the proper facts before them when they reached opinions adverse to the legality of the reclamation certificates, the use of which was stopped by Mr. Ballinger.

BANKER PLACED ON TRIAL

Former Cashier of Tipton, Ind., Bank Is Charged with Embezzling $100,000.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Charged with embezzling $100,000 of the funds of the First National bank of Tipton, Ind., William H. Marker, formerly cashier of the bank, was placed on trial before a jury in the United States court of this district.

Marker's brother, Noah R. Marker, former assistant cashier of the bank, indicted jointly with him on the charge of complicity in the embezzlement, will have a separate trial.

The United States district attorney, Charles W. Miller, in his opening address to the jury said the government expected to prove, in addition to the embezzlement, that William H. Marker had misapplied thousands of dollars of the cash of the bank for the benefit of several persons, including himself, and that he had made false reports of the condition of the bank to the controller of the treasury.

TINY BABY'S PITIFUL CASE

"Our baby when two months old was suffering with terrible eczema from head to foot, all over her body. The baby looked just like a skinned rabbit. We were unable to put clothes on her. At first it seemed to be a few matted pimples. They would break the skin and peel off leaving the underneath skin red as though it were scalded. Then a few more pimples would appear and spread all over the body, leaving the baby all raw without skin from head to foot. On top of her head there appeared a heavy scab a quarter of an inch thick. It was awful to see so small a baby look as she did. Imagine! The doctor was afraid to put his hands to the child. We tried several doctors' remedies but all failed.

"Then we decided to try Cuticura. By using the Cuticura Ointment we softened the scab and it came off. Under this, where the real matter was, by washing with the Cuticura Soap and applying the Cuticura Ointment, a new skin soon appeared. We also gave baby four drops of the Cuticura Resolvent three times daily. After three days you could see the baby gaining a little skin which would peel off and heal underneath. Now the baby is four months old. She is a fine picture of a fat little baby and all is well. We only used one cake of Cuticura Soap, two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. If people would know what Cuticura is there would be few suffering with eczema. Mrs. Joseph Kossmann, 7 St. John's Place, Ridgewood Heights, N. Y., Apr. 30 and May 4, '09."

Well-Conducted Visitors.
George W. Vanderbilt, at a dinner in Asheville, said:

"I am named after George Washington, and as George Washington's birthday approaches I want to register my faith in the people to whom he gave freedom.

"These people are worthy of freedom. They don't abuse it. This fact was brought home to me when, on one of the days when Biltmore was open to the public, I strolled unrecognized over my lawn.

"As I watched the orderly and polite visitors, a shabby young man hissed at me fiercely from a path:

"Hey, git off that! It ain't allowed." And he pointed to a keep-off-the-grass sign, and kept his stern eye on me till he saw that the order was obeyed."

On one occasion Sam Berger, the brawny manager of James J. Jeffries, was in a small California town, sounding some of the residents as to the possibility of holding a prize fight. The local police force, a clownish-looking individual with a huge badge, heard of Sam's investigations.

"You can't hold no prize fight in this here town," said the police force, threateningly, in his best "I-be-the-marshall" tones. "It is agin' the law, and I won't stand for it."

"Aw, beat it," said Berger, in disgust. "What do you know about law? Why, your very appearance in public is a misdemeanor!"—Lippincott's.

WHAT'S THE USE
Sticking to a Habit When It Means Discomfort?

Old King Coffee knocks subjects out tolerably flat at times, and there is no possible doubt of what did it. A Michigan woman gives her experience:

"I used to have liver trouble nearly all of the time and took medicine which relieved me only for a little while. Then every once in a while I would be suddenly doubled up with an awful agony in my stomach. It seemed as though every time I took a breath I would die. No one could suffer any more and live.

"Finally I got down so sick with catarrh of the stomach that I could not turn over in bed, and my stomach did not digest even milk. The doctor finally told me that if I did not give up drinking coffee I would surely die, but I felt I could not give it up.

"However, Husband brought home a package of Postum and it was made strictly according to directions. It was the only thing that would stay on my stomach, and I soon got so I liked it very much.

"Gradually I began to get better, and week by week gained in strength and health. Now I am in perfect condition, and I am convinced that the whole cause of my trouble was coffee drinking, and my getting better was due to leaving off coffee and drinking Postum.

"A short time ago I tasted some coffee and found, to my astonishment, that I did not care anything about it. I never have to take medicine any more. I hope you will use this letter for the benefit of those suffering from the poisonous effects of coffee.

"Read the little book, 'The Road to Wellville,' in pkgs. 'There's a Reason.' Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

COOPER FOLLOWERS

GIVE REASON FOR THEIR BELIEF

With a theory that human health is dependent on the stomach and with a medicine which he says, proves this theory, L. T. Cooper, a comparatively young man, has built up an immense following during the past year.

Cooper has visited most of the leading cities of the country, and in each city has aroused a storm of discussion about his beliefs and his medicines. Wherever he has gone, people have called upon him by tens of thousands, and his preparation has sold in immense quantities.

The sale of this medicine has now spread over the entire country, and is growing enormously each day. In view of this, the following statements from two of the great number of followers which he now has, are of general interest.

N. V. Marsh, residing at 217 South Daily street, Los Angeles, Cal., has the following to say upon the subject of the Cooper preparations:

"For more than a year I experienced the most intense suffering, due to a form of stomach trouble which the doctors called catarrhal gastritis. After eating I would fill up with gas, which caused frequent belching. The abdominal area would expand until I could scarcely breathe, causing great distress. At such times I could not keep still, but paced the streets for hours until the pain subsided.

"Frequently I went without eating rather than endure the torture that was sure to follow. Liquids were the only kind of food I could partake of with safety. I had spells of dizziness, and became badly run down through suffering and lack of proper nourishment. I tried various remedies in search of relief, but they failed to help me.

"Some time ago a brother member in a lodge to which I belonged urged me to try the Cooper remedies, which were then being demonstrated in Los Angeles. He stated that to his personal knowledge they had been of great benefit to others in a like condition, and on the strength of his recommendation I procured a treatment of Cooper's New Discovery.

"It proved helpful from the first dose, and in less than a week I was eating regularly and heartily, without experiencing any bad effects afterward. Since taking the full treatment I am perfectly well and enjoy living for the first time in many months. Now I can eat a hearty supper, then go to bed and sleep like a healthy boy. I feel so well that I can hardly realize I am the same man. Cooper's New Discovery has worked a marvelous change in me—it has done all that was claimed for it."

Another statement by Mr. W. B. Stewart, 109 W. Madison street, Chicago, is as follows: "I have had stomach trouble for years, and anyone who is afflicted this way knows what an awful distressed feeling it causes. Many a time I have felt that I would give most any price to be cured. It was by accident that I heard of this man Cooper's remedies. I immediately made up my mind to buy a treatment of him. I used it for about two weeks, and it is impossible to tell how much good it has done me. I feel altogether different. I have more life and energy than I have had for years. The medicine certainly does stimulate and strengthen the whole system. Tired feeling and weak condition of the stomach has entirely passed away. I feel well again."

Cooper's New Discovery is sold by all druggists. If your druggist cannot supply you, we will forward you the name of a druggist in your city who will. Don't accept "something just as good."—The Cooper Medicine Co., Dayton, Ohio.

Announcement is hereby given that every one is welcome to attend the "Wireless" given by the Samson Athletic club, at Hamlin's hall, March 25 and 26. This play has been reproduced by the boys from the play called "Via Wireless" played at the Chicago opera house a year ago. Popular prices is all we ask.

The C. C. C. Club girls gave an elegant supper Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Potter. The boys all attended and were right there when it came to having the best girls in the country serve them with such a number of well filled dishes. This supper far surpassed that of last year, and all who were present are already planning for the event next year. The girls certainly have ability in the culinary art and I advise the lads to make their pick before it is too late.
